

I am in full support of a very strict DO NOT CALL list. I see no reason why my private home must be invaded by telemarketers who have no respect for the family dinner time, time together, and are often so persistant that the only alternative is to hang up on them....after I have wasted my time answering the phone.